GOLF

At what angle of the downward stroke of the drive should the "zip" be made?

Answered by JIM BARNES

American open champions, 1933; recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world. In British open championship, 1932, he finished second, one stroke behind Walter Hagen, the winner.

The wrist action should be delayed as long as possible because if it is used early in the swing, its force is played out when the time comes for the club head to hit the ball. Don't actually start "striking the ball" until the club head is about two feet from the ball. Then is the time for the wrist movement. During the downward swing, before the "zip" is used, the wrist should be free and not rigid. (Copyright, 1933, Associated Editors.)

GIANTS BOOP TWO CONTENDERS

June 24 to 26, at Tannersville and Aug. 26 to 28, at Schenectady. Both Will Play Games.

Bridwell's Giants suffered a setback over the week-end and dropped both contests. Bascroft's game going to Tannersville by the score of 4 to 2, despite a sixth inning rally, and the Schenectady Knights won, 5 to 3, in the day's contest, 5 to 2. Both were well played exhibitions of the national pastime and Oneonta did not lose out without a struggle as creditable as victory would have been.

McKean's win in the first inning lost the game at Tannersville. The mountain team made two runs in that stanza, largely on bases on balls. Bill giving passes to the first three men who faced him. After the initial tuning McKean settled down and pitched good ball. Oneonta could make but six hits off the delivery of Hoyle, Tannersville's new twirler, and Simon was the only man who registered more than once. Oneonta staged a rally in the ninth, scoring two runs and having the tying tally on first when the inning ended.

An complete box score as could be obtained follows:

The Schenectady Game.

Schenectady bunched her hits to better advantage than did Oneonta in Sunday's game and won, 5 to 2. Oneonta scored both its tallies in the second inning. Brown walked and stole second as Sinistack fanned. Scanlon whiffed the batters and Wilcox singled to left, scoring Brown from second. Ferry was hit by a pitched ball. Watkins singled to center scoring Wilcox but Ferry was out at third. Murray making a beautiful peg to Andy Marone at third. In the first the Giants had a beautiful chance but nothing came of it. Wilcox and Ferry were each passed and Watkins sacrificed them each a bag. Eckstein fanned and Alexander walked, filling the bases. Simon ended the agony with a long fly which Schilling got in right field.

The Knights scored thrice in the first round. Murray, first up, flied to the outfield. Evers, a brother of the famous John, walked and went to third on Green's single. Black walked, filling the bags. Marone struck out but Schilling doubled, cleaning the sacks. He took third when Eckstein scored. Marone was passed. Marttner flied to Alexander, ending the inning.

Schenectady scored again in the fifth. Evers singled to center but was the victim of a double play when Green hit to Alexander. Black, with Walton last year, doubled and scored on Marone's single. Andy was forced at second by Schilling.

The last run of the game was made by the Knights in the fifth. Evers walked and scored on Black's second double after Green had flied to first.

The tabulated score follows:

AUTHOR OF "SHINN BINNING"

Arden Foster, Formerly of Oneonta, Now Resident of London.

A letter received yesterday by The Star from Arden Foster of 1 Vernon square, London, England, brings pleasantly to mind a newspaper man and author who a number of years ago resided in Oneonta and while here wrote and published a book which had quite wide circulation. The book was a novel, "Shinn Binning," and outlives there are many copies of it still to be found in home libraries in this city.

Mr. Foster recently returned to his native land, and is now engaged in presenting his series of eight Causerie-Concerts, in which are told the story of a thousand songs. In addition he has two causeries on distinctive subjects, with kindred music, and doubtless will be able on occasion considerably to enlarge the scope of his interesting work.

Along with his letter, which makes inquiries about old friends in Oneonta and asks for the illustrated booklet which the Chamber of Commerce issued some time ago, is the program of his concert given on St. George's day in St. Paul's hall, London, and also a prospectus of a 28-page volume of his postcard works, which sells for three-and-six, the equivalent of 57 cents American.

An Infallible Guard

Heimdall, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.

Advertising is your guard

BERECK STAMPS IN NEW COLORS

Government Just Completes Revision of Entire Series of U. S. Postage Stamps.

Washington, June 24.—The American government has just completed a revision of the entire series of United States postage stamps by the issuance of 21 different kinds in new colors and new faces. In the new series one denomination—the 13-cent stamp—was dropped and two new denominations were added, a 14-cent stamp and a 25-cent stamp. The elimination of the 13-cent stamp was due to the discontinuance of the three-cent wartime postage, which made it in great demand. The issuance of the 14-cent and 25-cent stamps is due to their great demand in mailing parcels post.

The decision to change the designs was based almost wholly upon the need of ascertaining more accurately what mail matter had postage due. The issue of stamps just discontinued were similar in portrait, color and shape. All the stamps under the old issue, from one to seven-cent denominations, had the portrait of Washington. Those from eight cents to 35 had the portrait of Franklin. In many cases the colors were but slightly different. In addition to this similarity there was the additional difficulty of obliteration of the numerals on the stamps by cancellation marks. These factors combined to make it extremely difficult to detect errors in postage. All this is eliminated by the new issue, in which each stamp bears a distinctive portrait, a distinctive color, and those more susceptible to confusion have a distinctive shape.

Fifty Years of Stamp Changes. Changing the United States stamps has been going on for fifty years. Since 1847 eight complete changes of design have been made in the United States postage stamps. These changes were made in 1851-'61-'66-'69-'74, 1902-'05-'12.

The new stamp series from one cent to 32 cents follows the custom of commemorating great figures in American history. The picture of Benjamin Franklin, the first postmaster general, adorns the one-cent stamp. That of Washington appears on the two-cent stamp. Theodore Roosevelt, for the first time, enters the roll of national heroes to be commemorated on United States postage. An excellent engraving of the portrait of him is on the five-cent stamp, which is most frequently used on foreign mails. For the first time the portrait of a woman appears on United States postage. Martha Washington's portrait being engraved on the four-cent stamp. The other Americans portrayed are Presidents Jefferson, Monroe, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, McKinley and Cleveland.

History to Be Portrayed. All stamps above 12 cents bear pictures of some theme symbolic of American history or some noted building or scene located in the United States. The new 50-cent stamp has an engraving picture of the Arlington amphitheater showing the tomb of the American unknown soldier. The 31 stamp has a reproduction of the majestic Lincoln memorial.

The 35 stamp is regarded as the crowning glory of the series. It is larger than the others and is in the national colors, the border being red, the face blue and the background white. The head is that of the American goddess, taken from the figure on the dome of the Capitol. The Indian head on the 14-cent stamp is that of Hollow Horn Bear, personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt, who marched in Roosevelt's inaugural parade.

United States stamps are made by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, by the same workmen who engrave and print government bank notes. The stamps are printed from intaglio-engraved plates on presses that turn out 1,000,000 a day each. This may seem a large output, but in the last fiscal year the government sold 14,918,300 stamps. Twenty-six per cent of this output was one-cent stamps and 64 per cent two-cent stamps. The manufacture of United States stamps takes 1,500,000 pounds of raw paper, made from spruce. The annual demand consumes 70 acres of spruce timber.

Find Gold in Lake Waters. Bridgeport, Cal.—Three companies are erecting plants at Mono lake to conduct experiments in the matter of extracting gold from the waters of the lake. Each of the companies says previous experiments point to ultimate success, and it is stated that as high as 20 cents per ton of water has been recovered. Such experiments have been under way at intervals for more than 40 years.

Police Cure for Rheumatism. Forty-seven rattlesnakes captured at Black's creek, about twelve miles from Boise, Idaho, have been sent by Robert Lambert to the Dutch government for experimental work. The Dutch government is perfecting a serum which, when combined with the poison from rattlesnakes and injected into the muscles, it is claimed, cures rheumatism. Lambert said. It took less than an hour and a quarter to bag the reptiles. They were found in a space 30 feet square. Lambert stated that the removal of the fangs does not, as commonly believed, render a snake harmless, for other fangs will grow in about three weeks.

Subliming the Fat. Little Evelyn was in the grocery store with her baby brother Billy the other day. A man went by and spoke to Billy. The baby did not answer, whereupon the gentleman said to Evelyn, "She won't speak to me today. Evelyn proudly answered, 'She shut a her; he's a him.'"

MARKET SENSITIVE DURING LAST WEEK

Bad Break in Prices Due to Firm Falling Followed by Sharp Recovery

New York, June 24.—Extreme sensitiveness characterized last week's securities markets, a bad break in prices on the failure of two stock exchange houses being followed by a sharp recovery in which most of the ground lost was regained. With the exception of temporary commitments made to take advantage of the unusual conditions last week, large traders showed a disposition to wait for more definite indications of the market's active market before resuming their active trading campaigns.

Much significance was attached during the week to the increased demand for copper and the continuation of record car loadings without any serious car shortage resulting therefrom. Absence of an effective foreign demand for surplus grain has caused a reactionary trend in grain prices. Hogs sold during the week at the lowest prices since 1917.

Money rates continued relatively easy. Government short term financing appears to have been completed until fall, making it possible to bring out several issues which have been held up until government loans were out of the way.

The erratic fluctuation of the German market was the feature of the foreign exchange. Failure of two stock exchange houses dealing extensively in German currency sent the rate tumbling down to 809.52 cents, a new low record for all time, only to be followed by a subsequent rally to .0016 cents.
